(54) Title: MILITARY LANTERN

(57) Abstract: Disclosed herein is a military lantern, which includes a body formed in a rectangular shape and having a power source buried therein, an electric bulb and a reflection mirror disposed at right angles to the body, a plurality of color filters used for sending a hand signal, and a color filter keeping case mounted on the front surface of the body, thereby reducing the entire size and weight in comparison with the conventional military lantern, and allowing a user to easily manipulate a hand signal.
